Inasmuch Gallery
Imagine you were a fur trader in what is now Oklahoma. Look at the items that were traded between the French and the Wichita tribe. Draw a picture of the item you are either trading to or trading for from the Wichita tribe, and fill in the sentence. Why would you trade for that particular item? What would you use it for?

I would trade ___________________ for ___________________ because
_________________________________
_________________________________
_________________________________
_________________________________
_________________________________
_________________________________

ONEOK, Inc. Gallery
Imagine you are on an expedition with Lewis and Clark to explore uncharted territory. Write a social media post detailing some of the things you’ve seen and done on your expedition through the museum, along with a few things you may have encountered along the way. Be sure to include your photos of the sights so that the people back home may enjoy them too!
E.L. & Thelma Gaylord Gallery
Visit the Welcome Home: Oklahomans and the War in Vietnam exhibit. Find the boat and have a seat on the deck. Imagine having to leave your home and go to a strange place far away with little or no warning. What two items would you take with you? Why?

1. ____________________  Why? ____________________________
2. ____________________  Why? ____________________________

Kerr-McGee Gallery
Sit at the Katz Drug Store counter and look at the protest posters hanging from the ceiling. Create your own protest poster or write song lyrics about something you feel strongly about.

Sam Noble Gallery
Go backstage in the Oklahoma! exhibit. Design a set for Oklahoma! or another theater production in the box below. After you have designed your set on paper, build it with the foam blocks!