History Detective

Historians spend their time investigating events, very much like a detective or journalist. They work to build evidence to support their views on the events they study. As you move through the museum, find evidence of and explain the following:

Conflict between groups

Conflict within a group

Cooperation between groups

Cause and Effect (something happens and impacts something else)

Context (something else going on explains why something else happened the way it did)

Change over time
