

Rosetta Daniels

HANNAH ATKINS (1923-2010)

Mrs. Hannah Atkins is a very important woman. She was a teacher, librarian, State Representative, Ambassador, Secretary of State, and much more. In 1968, she was the first African American woman elected to the state legislature. President Jimmy Carter appointed her as a delegate to the United Nations in 1980. Governor Henry Bellmon named her Oklahoma Secretary of State in 1987.