State Historic Preservation Office presents annual Citations of Merit

The OHS’s State Historic Preservation Office (SHPO) annually presents the Citation of Merit to individuals, organizations, forms, and government agencies in recognition of their many contributions to the preservation of Oklahoma’s heritage. These accomplishments may be in the areas of archaeological site preservation, leadership, planning, publications, public programming, research, or restoration/rehabilitation. “Projects and activities having positive impacts at the local, state, or national level are deserving of the recognition,” according to Melvena Heisch, the Deputy SHPO.

The 2006 Citations of Merit were presented on June 1 at the annual preservation conference, held at Robbers Cave State Park near Wilburton. The successful meeting drew two hundred people from across the state.

Several individuals were honored for their preservation accomplishments. Sally Ferrell of Chandler received the citation for her years of leadership and for acquiring and rehabilitating an abandoned 1903 territorial commercial building on Manvel Avenue (Route 66) in Chandler.

Ron and Mary Frantz were honored for rehabilitating their 1921 house on North-west Twenty-first Street in Oklahoma City. The house is exemplary of the preservation of the Gateway East Historic District.

Charles Scott of Guthrie, archivist of the Guthrie Scottish Rite Masonic Temple, was honored for his efforts on the town’s Historic Preservation Commission and his leadership as a preservation advocate.

Don Coffin of Guthrie received the citation for his years of service in the revitalization of the Guthrie Historic District. His leadership is further demonstrated by his personal rehabilitation efforts for historic buildings such as the one on Harrison Avenue in which he and his family operate a restaurant called “Granny Had One.”

Rene Spineto, Guthrie’s city planner, was honored for helping maintain the Guthrie Historic District’s nationally significant collection of resources.

Kent Schell of Tulsa was honored for building that city’s historic preservation program and guiding it from 1989 through 2006.

The Roy Alford Family of Red Oak and the Archaeological Conservancy jointly received the citation for their cooperative efforts to preserve Archeological Site 34LT11 (the Alford Mound, also called the McCutchan-McLaughlin site) on Fourche Maline Creek in Latimer County.

Organizations receiving the Citation of Merit include: Western Trails Historical Society of Altus, honored for their efforts to protect the history of southwestern Oklahoma in general and Jackson County in particular. An exemplary project was their feasibility study for the rehabilitation of the Cross S Ranch Headquarters, an 1881 stone house included on Preservation Oklahoma’s Most Endangered Places List for 2006.

The City of Muskogee was honored for successfully nominating Kendall Place Historic District (112 residential properties) to the National Register of Historic Places.

Durant’s Southeastern Foundation received a citation for their effort in rehabilitating the Massey Building, now the city’s primary venue for university and community functions and a centerpiece of downtown Durant.

Guthrie’s Oklahoma Sports Museum received the citation for creating its museum in the heart of the Guthrie Historic District and contributing to the community’s overall heritage tourism efforts.

The General Services Administration received the Citation of Merit for rehabilitation of the National Register-listed U.S. Federal Building and Courthouse in Muskogee.

ERC Development and The Hill Firm were honored for the certified rehabilitation of Shawnee’s Aldridge Hotel, a National Register-listed property.

Finally, the Local Cosponsors of the 17th Annual Preservation Conference, held in Stillwater last year, were honored for their assistance in hosting the meeting. These included Downtown Stillwater, the Payne County Historical Society, the Sheerar Museum, the Stillwater Convention and Visitors Bureau, and the Stillwater Community Center.

The annual Citations of Merit are the State Historic Preservation Office’s way of saying “thank you” to the state’s hundreds of preservation partners.

OHS members reelect four to Board of Directors

At the society’s Annual Meeting in late April, Emmy Scott Stidham, chair of the OHS Nominating Committee, announced the names of four incumbents reelected by the membership to serve on the board of directors in 2006.

In District 2, Bill Corbett of Tahlequah retained his seat. Sally Soelle of Lawton will continue to represent District 4.

LeRoy H. Fischer of Stillwater and Barbara Thompson of Oklahoma City will continue to hold at-large seats.

At the reorganizational board meeting, which followed the Annual Membership meeting, Leonard M. Logan IV of Vinita continued his presidency into the second year of a three-year term.

Effective June 28, 2006, the State Historic Preservation Office has re-located to the Oklahoma History Center. Contact Information is:

By Tim Zwink

With our state’s centennial year only a few months away, I would like to remind you of one of our special fund raisers, the Oklahoma Past-Times Calendar. The 2007 calendar is in production and will be a unique Centennial Edition, featuring the fifty most important dates in Oklahoma history, as selected by Dr. Bob Blackburn, executive director of the OHS. This centennial calendar will highlight vintage photographs from the Oklahoma Historical Society photo archives, interesting historical dates and facts, and notable festivals and events throughout the state for 2007. Like last year’s, this calendar will be distinctive in depicting significant subjects in Oklahoma history. The 2007 edition also includes a special list of Oklahoma Centennial events.

By ordering before September 1, you can customize the calendars for employees or clients. The calendars offer a great way to advertise your business or to use as a fund raiser for your organization, school group, or club. You can order these original calendars for yourself or as a present for friends and family. We again are working with McDowell Incentives to produce the calendar’s Centennial Edition. You can view sample calendar pages or order at <www.calendarok.com>. Or you can order by calling 800/599-4669, ext. 22. Proceeds from the calendar sales go to the Oklahoma Historical Society. So order your calendars now. This is an excellent opportunity for you to join the centennial celebration.

Summer benefits of OHS membership—

When you vacation in Oklahoma this summer, remember to take your OHS membership card. You’ll receive free admission to OHS sites that charge an admission fee, and you’ll receive a 10 percent discount at the OHS Gift Shop at the Oklahoma History Center in Oklahoma City.

See the July-December Calendar of Events on pages 4 and 5 for interesting things to do this summer. We’ve provided a list of OHS historic homes, historic sites, and museums and their addresses and telephone numbers for your convenience.

With gas prices soaring, stay close to home. Make this the summer you explore Oklahoma and its history.
Events

Miami’s historic Coleman Theatre is the venue for South Pacific, performed by LOOK (Light Opera of Oklahoma) with cast and orchestra from Tulsa. Sponsored by the Miami Arts and Humanities Council and the Oklahoma Arts Council, the show will be presented on Thursday, July 6 at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $25 for reserved seats, $10 for all other adults, and $5 for children. Call 918/540-2425 or go to their web site for a calendar of events at the theatre, <www.colemantheatre.org>. (Special to ML)

Woodward’s Plains Indians and Pioneers Museum, located at 2009 Williams Avenue, will host “Okahoma Northwest,” a summer institute for Oklahoma teachers and interested historians. The institute, to be held from July 10 to July 14, is jointly sponsored by the Plains Indians and Pioneers Museum, Historic Fort Supply, and Northwestern Oklahoma State University (NOSU). Classes will run from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Thursday and from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Friday. Lectures and reenactments will be led by staff from the Oklahoma Historical Society and NOSU, as well as regional and local historians and authors. Topics include “Physical Setting and Prehistory,” “Native American Heritage,” “Soldiers and Cowboys,” “Transportation and Homesteading,” and “Pioneer Communities and Farms.” Teachers are eligible for forty-eight Professional Development Points. For information regarding college credit contact Dr. Deena Fisher at 580/256-0047. A fee of $100 covers college enrollment and several meals. Contact Rob Roberson at the Plains Indians and Pioneers Museum, 580/256-6136, Bob Rea at Historic Fort Supply, 580/766-3767, or Dr. Fisher. (Special to ML)

Okemah. Woody Guthrie’s hometown, is hosting its 9th annual festival showcasing folk music from around America. Four venues within the town will provide stages for the more than one hundred expected performers. The event is free and takes place from July 12 to July 16, 10 a.m. to midnight. For information call 918/623-2440 or visit <www.woodyguthrie.com>. (Special to ML)

Edmond’s Plunkett Park, at the University of Central Oklahoma, is the summer venue for Oklahoma Shakespeare in the Park, which runs from June 15–September 3. Performances are on Thursdays through Sundays at 8 p.m. and include Two Gentlemen of Verona from June 15–July 9, Titus Andronicus from July 13–August 6, and The Taming of the Shrew from August 10–September 3. Plunkett Park is located on the UCO campus, between University Drive and Garland Godfrey Drive on Second Street. Happenings

Norman’s Carl Albert Congressional Research and Studies Center at the University of Oklahoma is seeking applicants for its Visiting Scholars Program, which provides financial assistance to researchers working at the Center’s archives. Awards of $500–$1,000 are normally granted as reimbursement for travel and lodging. The Visiting Scholars Program is open to any applicant. Emphasis is given to those pursuing postdoctoral research in history, political science, and other fields. Graduate students, interested undergraduates, and lay researchers can also apply. The Carl Albert Center evaluates each research proposal based upon its merits, and funding for a variety of topics is expected. The center’s collections are described in the publication A Guide to the Carl Albert Center Congressional Archives (1995), by Judy Day, et al., or at <http://www.ou.edu/special/albertctr/archives/>. For information on applying, contact Archivist, Carl Albert Center, 630 Parrington Oval, Room 101, University of Oklahoma, Norman, OK 73019. Inquiries may also be made by calling 405/325-5835, faxing 405/325-6419, or e-mailing <channeman@ou.edu>. (Special to ML)

Headquartered in Lawton, the Southwest Oklahoma Genealogical Society (SWOG) is encouraging all Oklahoma genealogical and historical societies to determine if their local and county governments as well as museums and newspapers are safeguarding their records from disaster. SWOG suggests society members volunteer to help organizations preserve documents as part of an Oklahoma Centennial Project in their community. (Special to ML)

Salute Old Glory at Fort Gibson on the Fourth of July!

Join a red, white, and blue salute to Independence Day. Fort Gibson Historic Site will present “An 1840s Independence Day” on Tuesday, July 4, 2006. This living history event will show visitors how the Fourth of July was observed at an 1840s army post. Members of the Sixth Infantry Living History Association will do infantry and artillery drill, including firing demonstrations. At noon there will be a reading of the Declaration of Independence, followed by a cannon salute. Troops will demonstrate games and pastimes of the period, and visitors are welcome to participate.

Living history activities will take place in the log fort area of the site from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., when the site closes. Later in the evening, the troops will present the colors at the Fort Gibson town fireworks display. Admission is $3 for adults, $2.50 for seniors (65 and over), and $1 for students (ages 6–18); children 5 and under are admitted free. Fort Gibson Historic Site is located on State Highway 80 in Fort Gibson, Oklahoma. For more information, contact Chris Morgan or David Fowler at 918/478-4088 or 918/478-4088 or e-mail <fortgibson@okhistory.org>.

The Arthur Ramsey Film Collection

By Larry O’Dell

There are many research options for those interested in exploring Oklahoma’s history. Researchers are not confined to merely poring over written documents, oral interviews, and printed items to gather rich information. The Ramsey Film Collection, housed in the Daugherty Family Rare Book Room at the OHC research library, provides moving pictures, many with the accompanying sound, of 1930s culture and events. Arthur Ramsey, born November 27, 1914, in Oklahoma City, began filming newsreels as a teenager. He served in a combat film unit of the Signal Corps in World War II and later opened his own Oklahoma oil business. In 1969 he moved his headquarters to Albuquerque, New Mexico, where in 2000 he passed away.

The collection, which can be viewed in the anteroom to the rare book room, contains an array of Great Depression-era footage. It encompasses more than 8,400 feet of black-and-white film. Included are scenes of Oklahoma’s oil industry, early radio industry, politics, theatrical commercials, and other events. A radio broadcast of “Serenade to the Stars” atop Ramsey Tower, highlights Oklahoma City’s radio production. The political footage includes William “Alfalfa Bill” Murray’s gubernatorial inauguration (no sound), a Murray speech (sound), Murray at the Red River during the “bridge war” with Texas, E. W. Marland, Victor Wickersham, Thomas Gore, and Robert Hefner. Events include the opening of the Oklahoma City Golf and Country Club clubhouse (1931), an Oklahoma City flood (1932), a Seminole Courthouse explosion (1934), and a Guthrie train wreck (1936). In 1935 Ramsey documented Oklahoma City’s new parking meters, the nation’s first. Notables that he filmed included baseball great Pepper Martin, Wiley Post’s parents, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., and WKY’s “Aunt Susan,” the cooking-school host. Clips of the 101 Ranch Rodeo, OU football highlights, a polo match honoring Will Rogers in Claremore, and auto races at the Oklahoma State Fair showcase the era’s entertainment. Another event is an Oklahoma Reunion picnic held in California circa 1933 and featuring William Murray and Will Rogers. The filming of railroads, airplanes, and oil wells in a defined, Oklahoma environment offers historians much significant period context. A guide for the video collection is located in the Daugherty Family Rare Book Room. Also of interest may be oral histories conducted with Ramsey and with his wife, Lyle Ramsey.

Frank Phillips House receives two financial boons

The Friends of Frank Phillips House recently received a substantial grant from ConocoPhillips. The funding will be used for preservation and conservation of the Frank Phillips House and its collections. Lloyd Cullison, ConocoPhillips representative, presented the grant to Vicki Stewart, president of the Friends board (below).

The Friends of Frank Phillips House is a non-profit organization that supports OHS in the preserving this important historic resource located in Bartlesville, Oklahoma.

In addition, the Frank Phillips House was recently presented a contribution from the Jane Phillips Society. The donation is to be used to repair the signage in front of the building. Above, Jim Goss, the historic house’s director, accepts the donation from JPS president Sandy Mason, vice president Mary Jane Wyatt, and treasurer Michelle Swaney.

On Your Mark!! Run in the Honey Springs Memorial on July 14

On Friday, July 14, 2006, the Friends of Honey Springs Battlefield and the Oklahoma Running Association will host the 4th Annual Honey Springs Memorial 5-K Run and a 1-Mile Fun Run/Walk. The 1-mile event begins at 7:30 p.m. (with a reproduction Civil War cannon as the “starter’s pistol”). The 5-K event begins at 8 p.m. (again with the cannon going “boom!”). At 10:30 a.m., Saturday, July 15, 2006, the site will host its Annual Memorial Service honoring those who fought and died (and some of whom are still buried) on the battlefield. Reenactors from the “Trans-Mississippi Rifles” will form the joint color guard and men from the “Union Rifles” will perform the gun salute. Volunteers from the “Arkansas Brigade” will provide a cannon salute before “Taps.”

This year Kansas native Arthur Collins will offer a brief program on his book General James G. Blunt: Tarnished Glory. The Memorial Service will be followed by the annual luncheon and business meetings of the Friends of Honey Springs Battlefield.
Civil Rights leader James E. Stewart, Sr., honored with Research Center exhibit

Noted Civil Rights activist and long-time Oklahoma City civic leader James E. Stewart, Sr., is featured in a new exhibit in the John and Eleanor Kirkpatrick Research Center at the Oklahoma Museum of History.

“The exhibit is presently on view, and it will be dedicated on August 18 at 2 p.m.,” stated William D. Welge, Research Center director. Stewart’s family and friends will attend the special ceremony. Special credit is given to Historical Collections Specialist Larry O’Dell, who developed the exhibit. A Marine Color Guard will be present at the dedication, and vocal music will provide ambience.

James Stewart (1912–97), born on September 6, 1912, in Plano, Texas, served as a leader in the Oklahoma City Civil Rights Movement. From 1916 until 1928 his family lived in Oklahoma City, where he attended Douglass High School. In 1930 he graduated from a school in Wichita, Kansas, and then entered the Oklahoma Colored Agricultural and Normal University (later Langston University). After one year he moved to Oklahoma City and gained the trust of publisher Roscoe Dunjee.

Stewart wrote the column “Jimmy Says” for Dunjee’s newspaper, commenting on the ongoing activities of Oklahoma City’s African American community. In 1937 the Oklahoma Natural Gas Company hired Stewart as a janitor, and by 1940 he managed the eastside office. He volunteered for the U.S. Marines during World War II. After the war he continued to work for ONG, becoming a vice president in 1976. He retired from the company in 1977. In 1982 Stewart chaired the Oklahoma City Urban Renewal Authority, and in 1984 Governor George Nigh appointed him to the State Narcotics and Controlled Drug Commission. Stewart died on April 13, 1997.

The Stewart Collection was donated to the Oklahoma Historical Society in 2004 by James E. Stewart, Jr., of Temple Hills, Maryland. The younger Stewart’s gift has enabled the OHS to attract other African American–oriented collections, including a 50,000-image collection of photographs by amateur photographer James Gatewood.

The exhibit displays four cases of items from the Stewart Collection. Included are autographed photos of Dorothy Dandridge and Joe Louis. Also on view is memorabilia from Stewart’s Marine career and letters from Ralph Ellison and W. C. Handy. Evidence of Stewart’s prominence in the Civil Rights Movement is attested by NAACP convention programs, souvenirs, awards and letters from such luminaries as Roy Wilkins. Other awards on display include a trophy given to Stewart at his induction into the Afro-American Hall of Fame in 1983 and a plaque representing his induction into the Oklahoma Journalism Hall of Fame in 1997.

The exhibit is installed at the west wall of the Research Center’s Reading Room, to the right of the main entrance. Following the exhibit dedication on August 18, a reception will be held in the Chesapeake Special Events Center.

T. B. Ferguson Home

519 N. Weigle
Watonga, OK 73772-3032
Phone: 580/623-5069
Hours: Wed.–Sat., 10 a.m.—4 p.m.
Admission: Free

Take a weekend trip to Watonga to see the T. B. Ferguson home, which novelist Edna Ferber visited in 1927. She stayed with Thompson B. (1857–1921) and Elva S. (1868–1947) Ferguson and loosely based her novel Cimarron (1930) on their frontier life. The Ferguson family migrated from Kansas to the Cheyenne and Arapaho country after it was opened to non-Indian settlers in 1892. After arriving in Watonga, the Fergusons established the Watonga Republican newspaper. In 1901 President Theodore Roosevelt appointed T. B. Ferguson as Oklahoma Territory’s eighth governor.

This three-story, wood-frame house, constructed in 1901, is surrounded by a white picket fence. The first floor witnessed many gala events, especially during the years when Ferguson served as territorial governor. Bedrooms, a bathroom, and space for the Fergusons to read and write were located on the second floor. The third floor had extra guest bedrooms and was used by the Fergusons to store magazines and newspapers. The house is furnished with period furniture contributed by local and Blaine County residents.

In 1967 the Mothers Self-Culture Club of Watonga launched a drive to restore and refurbish the house. Thus, rehabilitation occurred in the 1970s. In 1973 the T. B. Ferguson Home was listed in the National Register of Historic Places (NR 73001555). The property was transferred from the Oklahoma Tourism Department to the Oklahoma Historical Society in 1991.

Also located on the grounds are the first Watonga city jail and an 1870 U.S. Cavalry remount station, a log building. Annual events at the home include a fund-raising dinner in March, a volunteer appreciation dinner in June, an art show as well as an antique and collectible sale in conjunction with the annual Watonga Cheese Festival in October, and a display of Victorian-style Christmas decorations in December.

Lone Star Model T Fords visit Fort Washita

Eighteen Model T Ford automobiles arrived at the Fort Washita Historic Site in early May. This model of the Ford car dates from 1908 to 1926.

The vintage vehicles, piloted by members of the Lone Star Model Ts of the Model T Ford Car Club of America, were on a tour from the Dallas–Fort Worth, Texas, area.

David Rosenow, club chairman, had scheduled the road trip to Fort Washita and environs.

In a surprise visit, two Model A Fords (produced in 1927 and afterward) happened to drop on the way south from Wichita, Kansas. They arrived only a few minutes before their elder “cousins” appeared.

Historical Interpreter Ron Petty conducted a tour of the fort for the “autoists.” Other lucky visitors to the site were treated to an impromptu vintage car show in the site’s parking lot.

What is that?

Keep an eye on the new outdoor exhibit now under construction on the grounds of the Oklahoma History Center. The display should be completed by mid-July.
