2007.126 Griffith Amusement Company Collection

The collection consists of corporate records, business correspondence, financial reports, scrapbooks, and publications relating to the various corporations begun by the Griffith brothers and continued by Henry S. Griffing, which controlled movie theatres in Texas, Oklahoma, and New Mexico between 1915 and 1970. The collection documents the evolution of the corporations and includes information related to the lives of those who worked for them. Although the majority of the papers are related to corporate business transactions, the various scrapbooks and newspaper articles provide both accounts of the individuals behind the corporations and display the contributions of Henry S. Griffing and Video Independent Theatres, Inc., the corporation of which he was president, to the somewhat controversial ventures of Telemovies and Toll TV.

2009.100 Hockman, Ned

The Ned Hockman Collection spans from 1949 to 1987, illustrating his professional life in the film industry. The papers include film scripts, news information sheets, correspondence, senatorial campaign notes, and university classroom handouts, notes, and tests. The film scripts demonstrate what was being worked on by the motion picture production, but lack the full content as to who the actors were or directorial notes at the time of filming. The news information sheets provide background information on the subject to be filmed. Not all news information sheets have film scripts. The senatorial campaign notes reflect the public relations aspect and how film was utilized to promote the candidate. These notes do not reflect the candidate's thoughts or opinions. The classroom handouts, notes, and tests reflect what was being taught in regards to film.
