Preface

The National Historic Preservation Act (NHPA) established the National Register of Historic Places, and it is the basis of the State Historic Preservation Office's programs. Oklahoma's National Register Handbook includes a county-by-county listing of Oklahoma's National Register listings, the National Register Criteria for Evaluation, and other helpful information.

The State Historic Preservation Office (SHPO), Oklahoma Historical Society, invites concerned citizens, nonprofit organizations, and government entities to help us extend the benefits of National Register listing to properties that represent the development of Oklahoma and the accomplishments of all of its people. The SHPO's Statewide Preservation Plan sets forth the goals and objectives of the State's preservation community and suggests how everyone can participate in the identification of properties for National Register listing, as well as in efforts to protect them. We all share the responsibility for this important work, and together we can succeed. The State Plan can be found at okhistory.org/stateplan.

The National Register of Historic Places

The National Register of Historic Places is a catalog of American culture—the tangible elements of our archaeology, our history, and our architecture. The register records the sites, buildings, districts, structures and objects which keep us in touch with the achievements of our past.

It is essentially a continuing inventory that identifies both sites and the material remains of these cultural developments that have molded our nation from its prehistory to its present.

But the register goes beyond mere listing. It provides an authoritative guide to help federal, state and local governments, private groups and citizens to recognize the nation's cultural resources, enabling these groups to protect and sustain our heritage in the process of planning for the future.

The National Register of Historic Places is only one facet of a comprehensive national program established by the National Historic Preservation Act.

The NHPA set up a matching grants-in-aid program that sponsors state-based historic sites surveying and master planning, and encourages restoration of listed properties by state and local groups and individuals. The NHPA also set up an Advisory Council on Historic Preservation whose members advise the President and Congress on preservation matters. The Council is empowered to review any case where federally funded or federally licensed projects might threaten National Register properties.

Criteria for Evaluation

The following criteria have been established to guide the states and the U.S. Secretary of the Interior in evaluating potential entries to the National Register.

The quality of significance in American history, architecture, archaeology and culture is present in districts, sites, buildings, structures and objects that possess integrity of location, design, setting, materials, workmanship, feeling and association, and:

A. that are associated with events that have made a significant contribution to the broad patterns of our past; or

B. that are associated with the lives of persons significant in our past; or

C. that embody the distinctive characteristics of a type, period or method of construction or that represent the work of a master, or that possess high artistic values, or that represent a significant and distinguished entity whose components may lack individual distinction; or

D. that have yielded, or may be likely to yield information important in prehistory or history.

Certain properties are not ordinarily considered eligible for inclusion in the National Register. These include cemeteries, birthplaces or graves of historical figures, properties owned by religious institutions or used for religious purposes, structures that have been moved from their original locations, reconstructed historic buildings, properties primarily commemorative in nature, and properties that have achieved significance within the past 50 years.

Such properties are given consideration if they are integral parts of districts that do meet the criteria or if they fall within the following categories:

a. a religious property deriving primary significance from architectural or artistic distinction or historical importance; or

b. a building or structure removed from its original location but which is significant primarily for architectural value, or which is the surviving structure most importantly associated with a historic person or event; or

c. a birthplace or grave of a historical figure of outstanding importance if there is no appropriate site or building directly associated with his/her productive life; or

d. a cemetery which derives its primary significance from graves of persons of transcendent importance, from age, from distinctive design features or from association with historic events; or

e. a reconstructed building when accurately executed in a suitable environment and presented in a dignified manner as a part of a restoration master plan, and when no other building or structure with the same association has survived; or

f. a property primarily commemorative in intent if design, age, tradition or symbolic value has invested it with its own historical significance; or

g. a property achieving significance within the past fifty (50) years if it is of exceptional importance.

Types of National Register Properties

Properties may be nominated to the register in one of five categories: district, site, building, structure, and object.

A district is a geographically definable area, urban or rural with a significant concentration, linkage or continuity of sites, buildings, structures or objects which are related historically or aesthetically.

A site is the location of a significant event, activity, building, structure or archaeological resource where the significance of the location and any archaeological remains outweighs the significance of any existing structures.

A building is a structure such as a house, barn, church or hotel created to shelter any form of human activity; the term "buildings" may refer to a historically related complex such as a courthouse and jail or a house and barn.

A structure is a man-made construction of interdependent and interrelated parts, organized in a definite pattern. It is often a large-scale engineering project.

An object is a material thing of functional aesthetic, cultural, historical or scientific value; it may be movable by nature of design, yet related to a specific setting or environment.

What the National Register Does

1. Provides recognition of a property's significance in history, architecture, archaeology, or engineering.

2. Provides limited protection when a property is endangered by a federally funded or federally licensed action.

3. Provides the owner of an income-producing property (commercial or rental residential) the opportunity to receive investment tax credits for "certified rehabilitation."

4. Provides the owner the opportunity to apply for matching grants-in-aid for restoration/rehabilitation (when funding is available).

What the National Register Does Not Do

1. Does not restrict the use of the property. (For example, an owner can continue to live in a listed house, convert a listed property to another use, continue to farm ground where a listed archaeological site may be located, conduct new construction on the site, etc.)

2. Does not restrict the sale of private property.

3. Does not require continued maintenance of private property.

4. Does not require that any specific guidelines be followed in rehabilitation (unless the owner is using federal funds or receiving an investment tax credit).

5. Does not require the owner to give tours of the property or open it to the public.

6. Does not guarantee funds for restoration.

7. Does not guarantee perpetual maintenance of the property.

8. Does not provide a tax credit for a private residential structure.

9. Does not provide a historic marker for the property.

The National Register Nomination Process

1. Any person or organization can submit a nomination for any property.

2. To nominate a property to the National Register, a "National Register of Historic Places Registration Form" and, if appropriate, a "National Register of Historic Places Multiple Property Documentation Form" must be completed and submitted to the State Historic Preservation Office.

3. The State Historic Preservation Office staff reviews each nomination received. If the nomination is complete and in acceptable format, it will be scheduled for presentation at the earliest possible Historic Preservation Review Committee meeting. Unacceptable nominations will be returned to the preparer with written comments.

4. The Historic Preservation Review Committee meets at 1:30 p.m. on the third Thursday of January, April, July, and October in the Oklahoma Historical Society Boardroom, unless otherwise announced.

5. If the Historic Preservation Review Committee approves the nomination, it will be sent to the Keeper of the Register, Washington, D.C. Written comments received before or during the Committee meeting will be transmitted with the nomination to the Keeper of the Register.

6. The Keeper of the Register has forty-five (45) days from the date of their receipt of the nomination to act. The Keeper can list the property in the National Register, issue a Determination of Eligibility (in special circumstances), reject the property for listing, or return the nomination for additional information or clarification.

7. The Keeper notifies the State Historic Preservation Office of the listing of the property in the National Register of Historic Places, and the SHPO then notifies all property owners and elected state and local officials of the designation. The SHPO shall also inform the owner (and nomination preparer, if not the owner) when a property is rejected for listing or returned for additional information.

8. If an owner requests it in writing, a certificate denoting listing in the National Register will be issued by the SHPO.

NOTE: If a property proposed for nomination to the National Register is located within the jurisdiction of a Certified Local Government (CLG), the local historic preservation review commission will review and comment on the nomination prior to the SHPO's scheduling it for the Historic Preservation Review Committee's consideration. Current information about which Oklahoma cities and towns participate in the CLG Program is available from the SHPO.

How Nominations are Scheduled for the Review Committee

Acceptable nominations received by the State Historic Preservation Office are scheduled for the first possible meeting of the Historic Preservation Review Committee. Generally, acceptable nominations received sixty (60) days prior to a meeting of the Committee will be presented. However, if more nominations are received than can be processed in accordance with federal regulations, the nominations will be scheduled in accordance with the priorities listed below:

1. Properties considered to be endangered;
2. Properties that are examples of a rare type or that are surviving examples of a once common type;
3. Properties that are candidates for special tax incentives or grants programs;
4. Properties considered eligible for nomination to the National Register by a Certified Local Government;
5. Properties for which there is a demonstrated public concern; and
6. Other properties for which sufficient documentation exists to warrant nomination to the National Register of Historic Places.

Who Is the SHPO?

In Oklahoma, the Governor appoints the Oklahoma Historical Society's Executive Director as the State Historic Preservation Officer (SHPO). The SHPO is responsible for administration of the National Register programs in the state. Among these duties are survey and inventory of Oklahoma's historic and prehistoric resources, nomination of eligible properties to the National Register of Historic Places, review of federally assisted or federally licensed undertakings, review of proposed rehabilitation projects under current federal tax laws, development of a comprehensive historic preservation plan, conduct of the Certified Local Governments (CLG) Program, and provision of technical assistance to other government agencies, preservation organizations, and the general public.

What is the Historic Preservation Review Committee?

A state review board composed of professionals in the fields of history, architecture, archaeology, and architectural history, as well as citizen members, provides advice to the SHPO in each state. Oklahoma's review board is the Historic Preservation Review Committee. The membership is appointed by the Governor. The Committee has as its primary responsibility the review of all National Register nominations the SHPO submits to the Keeper of the Register.

How Are Property Owners & the Public Notified About Proposed National Register Nominations?

When the SHPO staff determines that a National Register nomination under review in its office is complete and in acceptable form, it is scheduled for the next possible Historic Preservation Review Committee meeting. In accordance with National Park Service (NPS) regulations (36 CFR Part 60), the SHPO notifies the owners of the property and the appropriate chief elected local official (with courtesy copies provided to the appropriate State Senator and Representative) of the pending nomination.

If there are fewer than fifty (50) property owners involved, the SHPO sends NPS approved notification by certified mail to each owner and to the chief elected local official. If a property involves fifty (50) or more property owners, the SHPO publishes a general notice in a newspaper of general circulation in the area where the property is located (historic districts are the most common properties to involve 50 or more owners), and a notice is sent by certified mail to the chief elected local official. Whichever notification process is used, the notice is given not less than thirty (30) nor more than seventy-five (75) days in advance of the Historic Preservation Review Committee meeting at which the nomination will be considered. The notice stipulates the property that is the subject of the nomination; explains the meaning of the National Register listing; informs the recipient about the date, time and place of the Committee's meeting; provides the date, time and place of an informational meeting in the local community when the property proposed for nomination is a district; and explains how owners may object to the nomination (see "Can an Owner Object to Listing of their Property in the National Register? If So, How?" below).

In the case of historic district nominations, the SHPO also issues a press release to the local newspaper and other media and provides an article for publications such as neighborhood newsletters. Complete copies of the proposed nomination are made available upon request from the SHPO and at the informational meetings held for historic district nominations.

How Can Property Owners & Others Express Support of a National Register Nomination?

Any property owner, local official, or citizen may express support for a National Register nomination under consideration by the SHPO, and all such written statements that the SHPO receives will be transmitted to the NPS. These statements may be forwarded to the SHPO by regular mail, fax, or email or hand delivered to the SHPO at the address on the front cover of this publication, or at the Historic Preservation Review Committee meeting when the nomination is considered.

Can an Owner Object to Listing of their Property in the National Register? If So, How?

Yes. Property owners have the right to object to the listing of their property in the National Register. If a simple majority of the private owners provide a notarized statement to the State Historic Preservation Officer (SHPO) that they are the sole or partial owner of a specific property and that they object to the listing of the property in the National Register, it will not be listed. When a majority of the property owners file such objections with the SHPO (by regular mail or in person) at the address shown at the beginning of this document by the deadline specified in the notice to property owners about the nomination, the SHPO will complete the formal review of the nomination under the NPS regulations (36 CFR Part 60). However, the Keeper of the Register will issue a Determination of Eligibility rather than formally list the property.

While public property owners, such as city and county governments, may not support nomination of their property to the National Register, their objections do not prevent formal listing in the National Register.

Property owners should feel free to contact the SHPO about their questions concerning the National Register and their rights. For the convenience of owners who wish to object to a National Register nomination, the SHPO will provide a form objection letter upon request. Anyone has the right to petition the Keeper of the Register directly about objections to a nomination.

Removing Properties from the National Register

Properties nominated by state or federal agencies will be removed from the National Register only when they have ceased to meet the criteria for the National Register, or when the qualities which caused them originally to be nominated have been lost or destroyed, or upon proof that an error in professional judgment has been made, or for failure to follow the procedures set forth by the Department of the Interior. Information concerning the loss of integrity, error in judgment or procedural error should be submitted, through the appropriate State Historic Preservation Officer or federal representative, to the Keeper of the Register, Washington, D.C.

Oklahoma Listings in the National Register of Historic Places

The following 1,453* districts, buildings, sites, structures, and objects were listed in the National Register of Historic Places as of September 9, 2026.

The listings are arranged alphabetically by county and city. Under each county, listings are grouped by the name of the city in or near which they are located.

Under the city (or vicinity) name, each entry includes: property name (followed in parentheses by archaeological site number and/or name of MPS, MRA or TR nomination, if any of these designations are applicable); location (unless this information is restricted); date of listing; National Register Criteria Code(s) under which the property was listed; any appropriate HABS, HAER and/or NHL designations; and the National Register Information System (NRIS) assigned number; and if the property has been removed from the National Register, that information will be noted in parentheses.

* Removed properties are not included in the total number of listings noted above.

Following is a guide to the codes used in the entries.

A,B,C, or D: Listed in the National Register for Criterion A, association with important events; B, association with important persons; C, architectural, artistic, or design merit, or representative of a period or a type of construction; or D, likely to yield information.

a - g: Property types eligible for the National Register only under special circumstances:

a. religious property
b. moved property
c. birthplace or grave
d. cemetery
e. reconstructed property
f. commemorative property
g. property less than fifty (50) years old when listed.

AD: Additional Documentation.

HABS: Documented by the Historic American Buildings Survey.

HAER: Documented by the Historic American Engineering Record.

MPS: Individually listed as part of a Multiple Property Submission.

MRA: Individually listed as part of a Multiple Resource Area nomination.

NHL: Designated a National Historic Landmark.

TR: Individually listed as part of a Thematic Resource nomination.
