Historic Name/Use: Hubbard House (1918)

Architectural Description: (1918) - Craftsman. Cross-gabled roof. Two story frame house. Wrap-around porch with brick porch supports with decorative wood columns. Windows are 4/2 on top pane over a single pane. Excellent example.

Significance and History: (Cat. I) - The house was built in 1918, during the boom years of the Burkburnett oil fields. The Hubbards made their early fortune by leasing their lands to oil speculators from Texas. The inside has 6 bedrooms, 2 bathrooms, sitting room, large living room, dining room, kitchen and library. A large fireplace is still in use, but the house was heated by steam radiators, operated by a coal-fired boiler in the basement. The house was sold in 1970's, and has been remodeled inside, but still retains many of its original interior features. Mr. Hubbard was the developer of the Hubbard Addition to Grandfield in 1920. This structure makes a significant contribution to the historic and architectural character of the area.

Legal Location: Lots 1-3, Block 21, Original Townsite

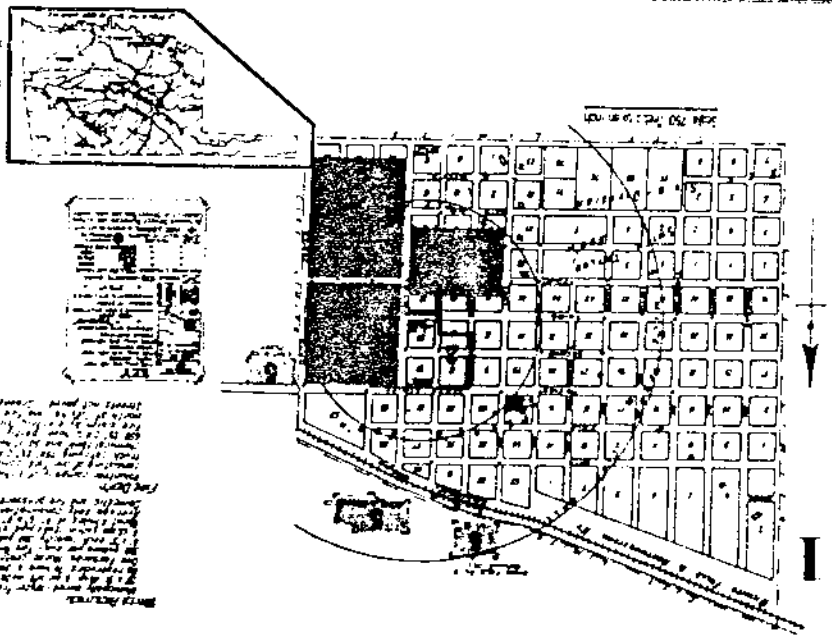

Description: The municipally-owned Community Building was built as a WPA project, of stabilized earth blocks made from a patented formula developed by Dr. J.E. Kirkham at Oklahoma A&M College; the formula included wheat-straw, mud and a special chemical which is supposed to turn the dirt blocks into stone over a long period of time. The building runs the full depth of the lot and contains two large and three small rooms; there is also a small cobblestone out-building at the west rear. The building is recommended for the State list.
